

REAL CLIENTS REAL INCOME ZERO WORK

Introduction

Thank you for purchasing my Digital Agency Step By Step Guide! This method is unlike any other typical method you find. Why? Because it's not a method, it's a legitimate honest business which some of you may not be accustom to, but take a leap of faith and trust me when I saw this could potentially be one of the easiest business in the world to run.

Alright let's get right into it!

The Business Model

What we are doing is fairly simple. We will be finding clients who sell some sort of digital product. Ebooks, software, video courses, etc... We do a quick search to see if their products have been put on any free file sharing websites, torrent sites, and forum websites. If they do we then contact them and offer to make it 'impossible' for anyone to download their products for free. We charge them a monthly fee and boom profit! Don't get intimidated this is much simpler than you think.

Finding Clients

I find there are many ways to find clients. But I'll share with you the one that absolutely is the easiest and one I used. Forum sites where people 'leak' things or share cracked/nulled software are the best ways to find clients. I'll give you a list of sites I used but remember to personally expand your list as it adds more value to your clients which will be explained later in the marketing your service portion.

Sites:

Leak.sx      <- Good for ebook niche

Bestblackhatforum.com   <- Good for software

Blackhatworld.com

Blackhatteam.com

Warez-bb.org      <- Best one has everything

This list should give you more than enough potential clients. So let's go through an example process of finding a client! For our example I am going to go ahead and use bestblackhatforum and go to the "software" section. Once you get more experience target bigger companies but to start only focus on smaller/medium companies.

After some searching I've found a great potential client:

[GET] MyMail 2.0.19 - Wordpress Newsletter Plugin (latest)

Remember to Rep if you like. Tired of leeeeeeeeeeechers.

Intrepid, you leecher, stay away from this thread!!

MY uploads are always source.

The product I saw was “MyMail” which is a WordPress newsletter plug-in.

This is great for a couple of reason. First, wordpress plugin makers are ALWAYS good clients because 99% of them are small developers/little 2-4 person teams.

So I already see that as a plus. Now before I continue I need to do a quick Google search to see if it’s leaked elsewhere!

In your search make try the following terms:

[get] “product name”

Mediafire “productname”

Zippyshare “productname”

Rapidshare “productname”

“productname” free download

“productname” nulled

“productname” cracked

And more keywords which you will learn as you gain more experience. Just from searching for 3 minutes I already found over 10 download links. If you can find anywhere from 5-50 real (none of that download manager bullshit) links then you’re golden. So copy about 3-5 of those links and save them because we will need them for later. MAKE SURE THE LINKS ARE FOR FILE SHARING SITES.

Mediafire, dropbox, zippyshare, rapidshare, anonfiles you get the idea... The absolute worst thing you can do is find a 'fake' link. By this I mean those scam sites that say they have free software but their download links are just virus .exe files. If you send that to your potential client you will look incredibly unprofessional! So it is absolutely crucial to find download links from FILE SHARING SITES!

Contacting The Potential Client

Always spend a couple of minutes researching the product so you don't come off as a general spammer in your e-mail. Always get to know what the product does, and how much it costs. So for my example "MyMail" I see a regular license costs $39. This is a great price in my opinion because it's enough to convince the client that the price is low enough for 'illegal downloaders' that want it to buy it which I will cover very shortly in the marketing portion.

So now I know what the product does and how much it costs. It's time to contact our potential client!

The most effective way I found is through e-mailing. But to save time and come off as more professional I develop a script. I pretty much e-mail the same thing to every potential client all I do is change a couple of words for each e-mail! Here is an example of my script. This is something I actually sent out in the past!

to [REDACTED]

Hello! My name is [REDACTED] Representing [REDACTED]

Your various [REDACTED] Softwares (especially your MP3 audio converter) has become fairly popular on the internet which is great for your business, unfortunately A LOT of people have released cracked and leaked versions of [REDACTED] for free on file hosting websites.

Would you be surprised if I told you that on one forum site alone your software has 590+ downloads! These could be customers imagine if out of these 590 downloads 30 actually bought the software. That is hundreds of dollars we are talking about.

[REDACTED] I found easily within SECONDS searching on Google:

[http://rapidshare.com/files/31\[REDACTED\]](http://rapidshare.com/files/31[REDACTED])

[http://ul.to/\[REDACTED\]](http://ul.to/[REDACTED])

[https://anonfiles.com/file/e36\[REDACTED\]](https://anonfiles.com/file/e36[REDACTED])

[http://www44.zippyshare.com/v/4\[REDACTED\]](http://www44.zippyshare.com/v/4[REDACTED])

(Careful some of those links might be dangerous)

There are many other links out there just like those that are giving out your software for free.

In a recent study (which you may have heard about) saw that people tend to see if they can get something online for free before paying for it. If they can then they obviously do not pay for it, but, if they can't over 30% of those people go on to buy the product.

We are able to practically completely wipe these links off of the internet making it almost impossible to get your software for free. With our process we remove the easy to find links that potential buyers find easy. Then continue to remove the links from the underground membership sites, these private forum sites make it so their files are only visible to forum members. We have accumulated hundreds of memberships on underground forums over our time in the industry so we are able to REALLY make it impossible to get your [REDACTED] from a file hosting site.

Sincerely,

- [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]@gmail.com

Blurred out certain parts to make sure you did not see the software name. Or my fake name or my fake business name haha. But notice a lot of things...

E-mail Script Link: <http://pastebin.com/tbxFhFEq>

1. Profile Picture – Looks clean and professional
2. This is a script you can repeatedly use only changing a few words on the links every time.
3. We throw in a bit of marketing tactics to make them think 30% of illegal downloaders will pay if they can't find it
4. We also create urgency saying on one site alone their software received 590+ downloads. To calculate that number I just took the number of people that replied to the thread and assumed everyone who replied = a download. So yes it's a number that you just pull out of your ass!

5. I pretend to be a company. NOT IMPERSONATING A REAL COMPANY. But rather creating your own personal brand. So I could do something like YouS Security LLC for example. This creates much more legitimacy rather than looking like a freelancer spamming.

So now let's talk about the work you need to do and the pricing!

The Actual 'Work'

The work is simple. All you are doing is collecting the links you find and going to the 'DMCA complaint' section of each of the file sharing sites. For example on mediafire. If you go to Help > Contact Us > Submit a Ticket. You will find a dropdown where you can select DMCA takedown. Shown in the image below:

If you are submitting a ticket for your MediaFire account, please log in first.

What can we answer for you?

I would like to file a DMCA Take Down Notice. ▼

Please provide a detailed description.

Realize you are not allowed to do this without the owner's permission. So don't go filing takedown notices until your client accepts a deal. But pretty much every file sharing site has a easy to find DMCA Takedown section to remove files.

What about the pirate bay?

Here is how to come off as professional. DO NOT mention the pirate bay unless the client asks. But if they do ask here is your response. Say your company takes files like these and puts them through a process called “file tainting” a process in which you reply in the comment section with 10+ accounts saying the file either does not work or is a virus. Scaring away those who would have originally downloaded it. Clients love the fancy word “file tainting” it sounds legit and as if you know what you are doing. This also applies to forum sites that for some reason don’t link to a file sharing site (incredibly rare but yea).

So basically all you are doing is spending let’s say 10-15 minutes collecting links from google searches. 10-15 minutes pasting in a DMCA Takedown notice. Then checking once a month to see if anything else went up which let’s say takes another 10 minutes.

So in total PER CLIENT you are really only doing about 30-45 minutes of work PER MONTH! Heck if you are too lazy to do that you can even hire a virtual assistant for $3-4 an hour.

How do I format the DMCA Notice?

I will provide a sample with a pastebin link of one I found/edited created by a real attorney. LINK: <http://pastebin.com/QTN2twTc>

Remember how I said earlier don't go trying to take down files until you secure a deal with your client. At the end of the DMCA notice it says “and I have the authority to act on behalf of the owner of the copyright(s) involved”

Which is why you need to make sure they confirm the deal before you do anything.

Pricing

Guess what? This isn't some gimmick method. If you've successfully read the entire guide so far and plan to put it into action congratulations because you are now a boss of your own company. You can charge whatever you feel appropriate for the time you spend. But to give you a general idea here is the way I priced things.

$39/month if I knew the work would be very light (smaller companies).

$79/month if I thought it would be a bit more work (still smaller companies but with more instances of their work leaked out)

$149/month for larger companies that would require the most amount of work.

The funny thing is when I say “most amount of work” I still mean under 2.5 hours per month!

As you grow and become better/quicker you can market your company as a more premium service. And Charge flat rate initial fees for cleaning out what's already there on top of a higher $199-499/month fee. It can be done easily once you get involved with larger companies!

Well that's it! You can have a badass digital security company that makes real money from real clients! All for ZERO INVESTMENT, and spending less than 2 hours a month per client! What's to stop you from hiring a virtual assistant and scaling this to 200 clients in your portfolio? NOTHING. No go out there and kill it!
